What Every Farmer Should Know About INCOME TAXES

(With particular reference to Cash Basis filing)

Prepared by H. P. Howard, Stickney, S. D.
— Farmers' Tax Consultant —

What Does the Farmer Pay Tax On?

He pays tax on his income, after allowable business expenses, depreciation on property, and certain personal expenses enumerated on the tax blank, have been deducted. He is also allowed a certain exemption depending on the size of his family or the number of dependents.

What Must be Called Income?

Everything a farmer earns must be termed income. Everything he receives from any source must be termed income, unless it is specifically tax exempt, such as a veteran's bonus.

How May Income be Classified?

Take a card and rule some columns. Put in one section the items that are "alive" such as cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens and other livestock or poultry. Keep these separate. Put in another section grain, hay, wool, etc. that are not "alive." Make special columns for cream and for eggs. Rule off two more columns and allow space for: machine work (done for someone), wages (received), insurance (received), interest (received), rent (received), gas tax refund (received), dividends (received), crop shares (in money equivalent), government checks (received). You will now have the proper headings for all the usual sources of farm income. Produce traded for groceries, etc. should be included.

Farm Auctions . . .

If you had a public sale, keep a list of what was sold and the price it brought. Write down what each item cost you originally and what year you bought it. From this list the actual profit to you may be determined. That is the part that must be listed as income. Generally speaking, machinery held longer than 10 years, furniture held longer than 20 years, buildings held longer than 20 years must be regarded as all profit when sold, as the government rules that you have received their value back in "depreciation."

What to Keep Track of . . .

Keep track of WHAT you sold (under headings given) and WHAT you received (under headings stated). It is not important TO WHOM SOLD or FROM WHOM RECEIVED. The date is not important, just as long as it was between Jan. 1 and Jan. 1 of each year. Keep track of the AMOUNT received.

Expenses . . .

Bear in mind that only expenses (not property bought) directly connected with your farm income or connected with income-producing property (such as a house held for rent) are deductible. Household and personal expenses are not deductible. There is one exception: the family's medical-dental bill, part of which becomes deductible if it exceeds 5% of your net income. To know what amount is deductible, if any, your net income must be computed first.

How to List Expenses . . .

Take a card and rule some columns under the following heads: Labor, Seed & Feed, Supplies, Repairs, Breeding Fees, Fertilizer & Lime, Veterinary, Water & Telephone, Rent, Gasoline, Storage, Taxes, Insurance, Interest, Tools, Business Magazines, Freight & Trucking, Auto Upkeep, Travel Expenses, Losses, Contributions, Expenses . . .

Bear in mind that only expenses that properly belong directly connected with your farm become or connected with income-producing property (such as a house used for rent) are deductible. Personal and personal expenses are not deductible. There is one exception: the family's medical bill, part of which becomes deductible if it exceeds 5% of your tax income. To know what amount is deductible, if any, your net income must be computed first.

How to Take Expenses . . .

Take a card and rule some columns under the following heads: Labor, Seed & Feed, Supplies, Repairs, Breeding fees, Fertilizer & Lime, Veterinary, Water & Telephone, Fuel, Gasoline, Storage, Taxes, Insurance, Interest, Tools, Binding Materials, Freight & Trucking, Auto Upkeep, Travel Expenses, Legal, Contributions

Board Purchased for Hired Labor, Baby Chicks, Legal Expense. You will then have all the common expenses of the farm.

Explanation of Expenses . . .

If expenses are connected with producing income, they are deductible. Under Labor, include such items as threshing, corn picking, etc. Under Seed & Feed, include also salt and mineral. Under Supplies, include such things as twine. Under Repairs, include both repairs to buildings (except the house you live in), and repairs to machinery. Include lumber, paint, nails, parts, blacksmithing and welding. Under Veterinary, include special foods and remedies for livestock and animal vaccinations. Under Water & Telephone, include only expenses for business, not household. Under Rent, include any rent paid in cash (not by crops) for farm, pasture or any part. Under Gasoline, include all fuels used for machinery, car and truck, except for pleasure driving. Under Taxes, include (separately) real estate, personal property and licenses. Under Insurance, include only crop, livestock and building insurance (not the house you live in.) Under Tools, include all such items as shovels, fork-handles, etc. Under Magazines, include only actual farming periodicals, devoted to better farming practices. Under Freight and Trucking, include costs of all business hauling (not moving household goods). Under Auto Upkeep, include all expenses of auto, trailer and truck, except fuel and that portion of auto expenses chargeable to pleasure driving. Under Travel Expense, include extra costs of travel for BUSINESS, such as meals and hotel bills. Under Losses, include only losses to property not covered by insurance, and do not include crops by disease or storm and animals raised. You may include animals bought, regardless of what year they were purchased. Under Contributions, include all money given to churches and recognized organizations. Under Board Purchased, include actual cost of purchased food, not raised food, for hired labor. Under Baby Chicks, include cost of chicks up to extent of poultry sold that year. Under Legal Expense, do not include legal expenses incurred in acquiring property.

Original Cost . . .

Whenever you list as income the total sale price of such items as cattle, machinery, or automobile, you have a right to deduct (or list as an expense) the original cost to you, if you bought the item. Cars and machinery are held to depreciate, and so, if you held machinery more than 10 years, a car more than 5 years, all the sale price is considered profit. For each year you held it, add 10% (in the case of machinery), 20% (in the case of a car) to the profit, as you are assumed to have recovered that much of the cost. Example: you paid $400 for a car, used it one year and sold it for $500. Your profit was $100 (actual) plus $100 (20% depreciation for one year) or $200 to be shown as income.

Property Bought . . .

You may recover the cost of property bought, but only over a period of years, under what is known as DEPRECIATION. So do not enter as an "Expense" the purchase price of machinery, car, truck, buildings, etc.

Livestock Bought . . .

Do not enter livestock bought, as an expense, EXCEPT in the YEAR YOU SELL IT. There is a special section in the 1040F blank for showing original cost of livestock you have sold.

Depreciation . . .

You may recover the original cost of any PROPERTY bought, except livestock, over a number of years. Generally speaking, you may recover the cost of machinery over a period of 10 years; wooden buildings over a period of 20 years; car or truck over a period of 5 years. This means that you may deduct under depreciation 10%, 5% or 20% respectively, of the original cost to you, each year. For example, a tractor which cost you $1000 may be deducted as an expense at the rate of 10%, or $10 a year for 10 years. Depreciation starts when you buy property, regardless of its age at the time. You are allowed to estimate how many years it will last and recover the full cost to you in that length of time.

The sale price of any property (except your personal dwelling) is considered as ALL PROFIT if you have held it more than the number of years of its estimated useful life. For example, a used combine cost you $350. You estimated its life at 5 years. If you held it five years and then sold it for $200, you should enter the $200 as all profit.

If you sell property after the depreciation has been only partly recovered, you must add the recovered depreciation on to the net profit. Example: you bought a plow in 1940 for $150. You sold it in 1945 for $100. You lost $50 on the transaction. but you had recovered $75 (10% or $15 a year, for five years,) so your taxable profit is $25. For buildings, see example under "Land and Buildings."

Land and Buildings . . .

Land does not depreciate. Buildings do. If you sell land and buildings, you are permitted to deduct from the sale price the original cost of the land and buildings (separately). You may deduct also the cost of improvements. If you made improvements which actually increased the value of the buildings, fences, wells, etc., you must take a higher valuation in determining the depreciation recovered, as you took a higher valuation in determining the sale price.

Example :

Sale price of farm and buildings (1945)	$8000
Original cost 1935, land—$1500; house —$5000; farm buildings—$2000	4000
	$4000
Improvements (not house) which increased value, in 1940	500
	$3500	$3500
Depreciation on bldgs. (not house), for 5 yrs —5% of $2000 for 5 years	500
Depreciation of bldgs. (not house),—5% of $2500 (the new value) for 5 yrs.	625
	$1125	1125
		$4625
Costs of sale		125
Net profit, to be shown as income		$4500

* Improvement on the house in which you live may be subtracted from net profit, as you never recover depreciation on this.

If you live on your own farm, figure depreciation on all buildings except the house. If you are figuring depreciation on a farm which you rent, all buildings are subject to depreciation.

Loss on Sale of Property . . .

If you lost money on the sale of property you may show a loss on your income tax blank, but the amount of loss depends on whether you held the property longer than 6 months, and there are limitations on the amount you may show in any given year, as well as a limit on the total loss you may show. (See 1040 blank Schedule D—a separate blank—"Capital Gains and Losses.")
